Structure and Share Data for U.S. Banking Offices of Foreign Entities

Structure and Share | About

Data are collected as of the end of the month for March, June, September and December, and generally are released three months later.

Structure Data

There are two reports showing the same structure and asset information for each U.S. office, but in different orders. Offices located in Puerto Rico, American Samoa, Guam, the Virgin Islands and other U.S.-affiliated insular areas are excluded. The first report lists the offices by institution type. The second report is by the home country of the foreign bank.

Each report shows asset totals and subtotals for the categories displayed.

Code definitions appear at the end of each report.

Reports are available in Screen Reader HTML format and the underlying data are also available in ASCII format.

Intesa Sanpaolo

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Intesa Sanpaolo is a banking group resulting from the merger between Banca Intesa and Sanpaolo IMI based in Turin, Italy. It has clear leadership in the Italian market and a minor but growing international presence focused on Central-Eastern Europe, the Middle East and North Africa (77% of the bank's revenue (96.3% from Europe) and 86% of all loans to customers come from business in Italy).^[1] When it was formed in 2007 it overtook Unicredit Group as the largest bank in Italy with 13 million customers and $690 billion worth of assets.^[4] By 2010 its assets had grown to $877.66 billion 26th highest among all of the world's companies.^{[5][6]}

Now is the second largest banking group in Italy, after Unicredit Group.

In 2009 group acquisitions included a 30% interest in business info company MF Honyvem, and an increased stake in Alitalia up to 33.3%.^[7] Even though the bank was rumoured to have been working with the government to keep Air France from acquiring a stake in Alitalia Air France eventually acquired 25%.^{[8][9]}

Business Units

The group's operations are segmented into 5 parts^[15]

- Banca dei Territori - By far the largest division this is the company's domestic commercial bank in Italy. Subsidiaries include Mediocredito Italiano, Intesa Sanpaolo Private Banking, Banca Prossima, and insurance companies Intesa Sanpaolo Vita, Intesa Sanpaolo Assicura.
- Corporate and Investment Banking - Present in 29 countries this division acts as a "global partner" supporting the development of financial institutions, both nationally and internationally.
- International Subsidiary Banks - Present in 12 countries spanning central eastern Europe, the Middle East, and North Africa.
- Eurizon Capital - One of Italy's largest asset manager^[16] that invests in such things as bonds (including government), publicly traded companies and also engages in short term borrowing and lending. In 2010 another leading European asset manager Pioneer was rumoured to have been interested in joining forces with Eurizon Capital.^{[17][18]}
- Banca Fideuram - Offers financial advice services. It was created in 1968 as a subsidiary of IMI (later merged with Sanpaolo and then Banca Intesa to form the current company) with the purpose of managing IMI's Luxembourg mutual fund business. In 1992 it was merged with another subsidiary Manusardi, that is when it officially became Banca Fideuram. In 1997 it entered the private banking industry, 2000 it became a broker after acquiring French Company Groupe Wargny (was established in 1806, some of the Wargny business was sold in 2007) then in 2004 its parent company IMI took over its life insurance business. Its association with US company Frank Russell group gave it a foothold in the personal financial planning market.^{[19][20]}

Banca Intesa

Banca Intesa S.p.A. is a major Italian bank based in Milan. It was formed in 1998 from the merger of Cassa di Risparmio delle Province Lombarde and Banco Ambroveneto. In 1999 Banca Commerciale Italiana entered the group, which pursuant to the merger in 2001 changed its name in IntesaBci; on 1 January 2003, the group's name changed to Banca Intesa.
